I am good at singing and often write songs in my free time. Two years ago, I decided to join in a talent show for the first time. I chose one of my songs and practiced it hard for the show.

I sang it many times in front of my family. But singing in a show was difficult. I was very afraid when I saw many people sitting in front of me. As a result, I didn't do well in the show.

Things got better for me when I got a phone call from a producer (制作人). The producer saw the show. He thought I was talented because I wrote the song by myself, and the song was great. He wanted to help me to use my talent well. With his help, I worked harder and wrote five new songs in one month.

My experience taught me an important lesson. Great things always come with hard work. If you fail (失败) sometimes, don't be afraid. Just keep working and trying.
