Explore Central Park, one of the largest city parks in the world and one of the most famous symbols of New York. Let's have a look at its main sights.

Central Park, with an area of 843 acres, is home to man-made lakes, waterfalls, grass and wooded areas. You will also find the Central Park Zoo in this green space of New York.

Central Park is also a favorite spot for many New Yorkers. It is perfect for sunbathing, going for walks or doing any outdoor sports. Something that you find surprising is seeing so many people running with their babies in prams(婴儿车).

On Foot or by Bicycle

To get to know some of the wildest parts of Central Park, we suggest walking. However, to get a general feel of the whole park, the best thing to do is rent a bicycle and enjoy the scenery.

If you decide to rent a bike, you will find lots of bike rental stores around Central Park that are not very expensive.

Open Time

From 7:00 am to 10:00 pm on weekends.

From 6:00 am to 8:30 pm on weekdays.

Price

Entry to the park is free. But if you visit some parts like Central Park Zoo, you need to buy a ticket.

Transport

Subway: Line 5, 6, 7, A, B, C and D.

Bus: Line M1, M2, M3, M4 and M10.

Not all heroes wear capes(斗篷) and Steve Montelongo proved the statement. While he doesn't consider himself a hero, he has saved the lives of three people during the last two decades.

The 80-year-old man was in the right place at the right time, when he pulled a man out of his sinking car after he had accidentally driven into a river. Montelongo jumped to the man's help without any hesitation(犹豫) or regard to his own health.

The accident happened while the elderly man was taking his granddaughter home after a dentist's appointment. They had stopped at a traffic light when the girl saw the car fall into the river. Montelongo got out of his car to check out the scene and instantly noticed that water had begun rushing into the vehicle of the trapped driver. He walked into the river and managed to open the automobile's back door, which fortunately was unlocked. As the water began to rush into the car faster, the 80-year-old managed to pull the 62-year-old Jack Swarts from the car by his shirt.

He later said in an interview—"I don't consider myself a hero. I was just a man that got put in the right place at the right time"—words from a genuine modern-day good person.

This, however, wasn't Montelongo's only act of heroism. Nearly 20 years ago, he helped two of his neighbors get to safety as their house was caught in a fire. He was 62 years old at the time and had to kick open his neighbor's front door to pull out 80-year-old Kathirne Mattox and 79-year-old Wayne Maxwell. During the rescue, Montelongo suffered chest pains and had to be hospitalized but made a quick recovery (恢复). He was awarded the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission medal for this bravery and act of heroism.

4. What does the underlined part in paragraph 1 mean?

- A. Heroes like special clothes.
- B. Everyone wants to be a hero.
- C. Heroes deserve to be praised.
- D. Ordinary people can be heroes.

5. How did Montelongo save Jack Swarts?

- A. By managing to start the car.
- B. By pulling him out of the car.
- C. By clearing the car of water.
- D. By giving him first aid treatment.

6. What can we infer about Montelongo from his words in the interview?

- A. He is modest.
- B. He is brave.
- C. He is responsible.
- D. He is clever.

7. What can we learn from Montelongo's story?

- A. A hero is a man of confidence.
- B. Care is an important part of courage.
- C. For what they ought to do, such a person is brave.
- D. The most terrible enemy is the lack of strong faith.

C

Lectures on happiness are becoming increasingly popular in Harvard University. I went to one of them, which left a lasting impression on me. While we were listening with close attention, the speaker suddenly stopped and started a game, giving each person a balloon. Each one was asked to write their name on it using a pen. Then the 100 students from 25 schools were divided into two groups.

Now the two groups were in different rooms with their balloons flying in it. The first group of 50 students were asked to find the balloon with their name on it within 5 minutes. Everyone was hurriedly searching for their own name, pushing and running into each other, and there was lots of noise. At the end of 5 minutes, none of them could find their own balloon.

The second half, on the other hand, was asked to randomly (随机地) collect a balloon and give it to the person whose name was written on it. Within minutes everyone had their own balloon.

This is exactly happening in our lives. Everyone is hurriedly looking for happiness all around, not knowing where it is. Our happiness lies in the happiness of other people. Give them their happiness, and you will get your own happiness. And this is the purpose of human life.

8. What happened to the first group?

- A. None made any noise at all.                      B. None found their balloon
C. Everyone found their friends.                      D. Everyone helped one another.

9. How many students found their own balloons in the game?

- A. 5.                      B. 25.                      C. 50.                      D. 100.

10. According to the text, which of the following is TRUE?

- A. Everyone pushed each other in the two groups.
B. Students in the game come from the same school.
C. Our happiness comes from the happiness of others.
D. Students learned nothing about happiness in the game.

11. Which of the following can be the best title for the text?

- A. Finding Happiness                      B. Having Lectures
C. Collecting Balloons                      D. Playing Games

D

Languages have been coming and going for thousands of years, but in recent times there has been less coming and a lot more going. When the world was still populated by hunter-gatherers, small, tightly knit(联系)groups developed their own patterns of speech independent of each other. Some language experts believe that 10,000 years ago, when the Why play sports? You might say “to get exercise” and you would be right. To have fun? That's true, too. But there's more. 16 According to the Women's Sports Foundation, girls who play sports get a lot more than just fit.

Girls who play sports do better in school. You might think that athletics will take up all your study time. 17 Exercise improves learning, memory, and concentration, which can give active girls an advantage in the classroom.

Girls who play sports learn teamwork and goal-setting skills. 18 When working with coaches, trainers, and teammates to win games and achieve goals, you're learning how to be successful. Those skills will serve you well at work and in family life.

Sports are good for a girl's health. In addition to being fit and keeping a healthy weight, girls who play sports are also less likely to smoke. And later in life, girls who exercise are less likely to get breast cancer or osteoporosis(骨质疏松症).

Playing sports improves self-confidence. 19 Why? It builds confidence when you know you can practice, improve, and achieve your goals. Sports are also a feel-good activity because they help girls get in shape, keep a healthy weight, and make new friends.

20 Playing sports can reduce stress and help you feel a little happier. How? The brain chemicals released during exercise improve a person's mood. Friends are another mood-lifter. And being in a team creates tight bonds between friends. It's good to know your teammates will support you-both on and off the field!

- A. Exercise cuts the pressure.
- B. Sports teach valuable life skills.
- C. Regular exercise increases quality of life.
- D. In fact, there are at least five more reasons.
- E. Girls who play sports feel better about themselves.
- F. Playing sports offers children more than just physical benefits.
- G. But research shows that girls who play sports do better in school than those who don't.

America's holiday shopping season is the busiest shopping day of the year. After some shopping in a store, my family and I were going to have a meal in one of the food area where fast food is sold. It's 21 to find a seat. People were standing waiting for 22 to free up.

When we found one, I sat down watching a waiter 23 clearing and cleaning tables as soon as they became 24. What's more, he was not a 25 man, probably in his late fifties and a bit fat, but 26 of that slowed him down a little.

27 I watched I was disappointed with people who didn't clean up the rubbish themselves. They would just 28 their spilled (溢出) drinks, bread and some other rubbish on the table. 29 the waiter never 30 smiling and saying "Enjoy your day!" to everyone he met. I was almost moved to tears.

After my family 31 our meals, we cleaned up the table so he would have 32 things to do. On the way out, I 33 his hand and said, "Thank you for how hard you work." When I tried to give him a $10 bill, he said, "No, I can't 34 this. It's my job." I said I wasn't 35 it to him for payment or for a tip. I was giving it to him because I knew he had a good heart—and it can be hard to find these days! The man's eyes turned red, said thank you, and went right back to clear and clean tables.

It was a great day and he was a great person that I had ever met.
