四、阅读选择(共 2 题，共 12 分)

15、

Perhaps,you are a smart person with good knowledge and creative ideas, but when you move to a new environment or have to work with some new people,it is not always easy for them to recognize you or respect you immediately. ____ How can you get other people to pay attention to you and respect you?

Be curious and be willing to learn new things.

Moving to a new working environment,you may need to deal with new things or skills. ____ In such a case,people who are more willing to learn new things can become more flexible and be able to meet new requirements in their job.

Learning or working in a new environment,you need to have a good sense of judgement when joining a discussion or making a decision. You should consider what is virtually right, and look for long-term goals,and not be distracted by small choices for the short term.

Be confident and make eye contact when talking to people.

When you go out and meet people,it is important to look confident. For example, if you are going to an interview,but you don't feel confident, what can you do? Before you walk in, think to yourself,"I own the room." ____ Remember to look other people in the eye—it's the key to creating a connection with people. Soon,you will feel as confident as you look.

Set clear goals and learn.

When working together with others,it is important that you have a clear vision and a working plan to achieve it. Let people know what you stand for. You need to find out which ideas can really unite people and then express those ideas clearly. ____ .

Be helpful to others. When working, don't focus on what is your work and what isn't. After do-ing your own work,always be ready to help others.

A. How can you be a leader soon?

B. How can you get along with others? C. Then, walk in holding your head high and smile. D. Quite often, they don't belong to your own field. E. Remembe

Conflict is an unavoidable part of life. So how can we save meaningful relationships after a fight with our loved ones? ____ If you are currently struggling to seek forgiveness, consider these crucial steps to apologize effectively.

Say the words. After hours of quarreling, many people struggle to summon up the courage to say “I am sorry.” To some it is almost equal to admitting defeat, and no one likes to lose. ____ Instead, they may buy flowers or offer a back rub, convinced that surely this must be enough. But is it? Words are actually quite useful.

____ It is easy to think you are the victim in a fight. We tend to minimize our own errors while exaggerating the mistakes of others. This is the way we rationalize (合理化) our actions in conflicts. Simply put, we make excuses. But if earning forgiveness is your ultimate goal, then attempt to be less defensive the next time you find yourself in a fight. Stop making excuses for yourself and your behavior and own up to your actions.

Ask for the chance to make up or pay for your mistakes. This gesture is even more effective if it comes at some personal cost to you. So pay for that broken window with your allowance, buy your sister a new pair of headphones after a quarrel, or offer to help your partner with extra housework after arguments. ____

Apologies do work, but be mindful that how you apologize also matters. ____ When you need more than it, extra work is needed to develop the relationship, like seeking professional advice from experts.

A. Take responsibility for your own wrongdoing.

B. One critical way is by learning how to apologize.
