When you're choosing a college, a lot of factors probably may be considered: the school's reputation, the classes offered, and the professors in your major, to name a few. As a freshman, you'll receive a laptop already set up with all of the software that you'll need as a student. Then, after two years, you'll receive a new and updated laptop designed to carry through until after you graduate.

New York University

If you're a fan of museums, NYU (New York University) is the perfect university for you not only are you located in the heart of a city featuring some of the best museums in the world, but the university will even provide you with free admission to many of them. How did one man prove that small kindnesses add up?

My family first met Wally Urtz, the gentle, modest manager of our local supermarket, on a windy day nearly 20 years ago just after we'd moved to Hasting-on-Hudson, a New York City suburb. As my wife made her way to the store's exit, attending her groceries and two small children, Wally rushed up beside her. "I'll get those, young lady," he said brightly, taking her bags and leading her to the parking lot. Now that may seem like no big deal-except that these days things like that so seldom happen.

Our story, as it turned out, was typical. Among Hasting's 8,000 people living here, almost everybody had at least one about Wally's politeness and generosity. There were the times he'd reach into his own pocket when someone was short of money; the times he'd show small kindnesses to someone who'd just lost a loved one or who was in the middle of divorce; the many, many times he'd put himself out for older people.

"He just appreciated that when people get older, their lives get smaller-they don't drive, their friends have passed on and how much it means to be treated warmly," one woman, Kathy Dragan said, "When my mother was in her 80s, it was a treat for her to go to the store." Wally would call out to the shop clerk and say, "You give her whatever attention she needs." She'd tell me, "He's kinder to me than some people I've known all my life."

Yet few of us fully understood what Wally meant to the people's life of our community-until he was sent to another store 20 miles away. For some unknown reason, the Food Emporium chain had decided to replace 67-year-old Wally after 26 years due to "operational issues related to operating a store the size of the one in Hastings."

No one could believe it. Word spread quickly. Neighbors called each other seeking the feeling of emotional comfort. Some planned to bring Wally back and staged protest marches outside the store. Others flooded the local newspaper with angry letters. The mayor look up the cause. Even the police tried to set things right.

A grocer seems an unlikely figure to set of such an emotional outpouring. What he did shows the remarkable effect Wally-a man of endless warmth and good humor-had on people.

41. According to the passage which of the following statements is TRUE?

- A. Wally Urtz is always ready to help others every day.
- B. Wally Urtz is a man who wants to draw attention to him.
- C. Wally Urtz helped the author's wife on purpose.
- D. The author had known Wally Urtz before we moved to Hastings-on-Hudson.

42. The purpose of Kathy Dragan's words in paragraph 4 is to show _____.

- A. in the whole life of Kathy Dragan's mother, Wally is the kindest person to her
- B. when people get older, they would like to live by themselves
- C. Wally had always cared about helping the older people
- D. you should give your old mother whatever attention she needs

43. What's people's reaction to Wally Urtz's being moved away?

- A. No one paid much attention to it.
- B. Many people objected to it in different ways.
- C. The police supported it with all their heart.
- D. The mayor thought it was a good idea.

44. It can be inferred from the passage that _____.

- A. A person in the grocery can easily express his feeling out to others.
- B. A person full of warm-heartedness and humor has a great influence on people.
- C. The mayor didn't look into the reason of people's emotional outpouring.

- D. The Heart of Town-a Man of Endless Warmth

If someone created a flying machine able to track you down by listening for your voice, you might be terrified. But what if you were trapped in ruins after a natural disaster and first responders couldn't locate you? Maybe then a human-seeking drone (无人机) wouldn't be such a terrible idea. That concept is the focus for engineers at Germany's Fraunhofer FKIE Institute, who've built a drone to find people by detecting human screams.

“The human seeking drone would be ideal for post-disaster situations, such as earth-quakes, hurricanes and wildfires,” said Macarena Varela, one of the lead engineers. “They could hover (盘旋) over an area that rescue crews have difficulty getting to and locate exactly where people may be trapped.”

Locating people by sound presents its share of challenges. An auditory (听觉的) system would need to tell human cries from sounds that often happen in nature, such as animal calls and wind. It might also need to recognize patterns associated with kicking, clapping or other ways people try to get the attention of rescue teams.

Engineers took those situations into account when building out their concept drone. They recorded themselves screaming, tapping and creating other noises they might be a sign of people in trouble. Then, they analyzed each sound frequency to find common signatures and used those to train artificial intelligence software. They also worked to remove the noise created by the drone and other environmental sounds.

Once the software part was completed, the team placed tiny digital microphones under the drone and used signal processing techniques that enabled them to track where human noises are coming from. The microphones also enhanced the volume and clearness of the speech. So far, they have conducted successful open field experiments, finding that the drone can estimate a victim’s location within a few seconds of picking up sound.

Next, they would like to add a higher frequency microphone to a drone to acquire more audio sound signals. The idea is to pick up noises from hundreds of meters away, Varela said. In the real world, victim’s location data might one day be sent wirelessly to emergency crews carrying a tablet.

46. What is the advantage of the human-seeking drone?

- A. Its high speed of flying.
- B. Its long working hours.
- C. Its quick response to screams.
- D. Its easy access to disaster scene.

47. What can the auditory system do?

- A. Recognize human cries.
- B. Pick up sounds from far away.
- C. Send victim’s location data to a tablet.
- D. Improve the quality of human screams.

48. What does the underlined word “signatures” in Paragraph 4 refer to?

- A. Effects.
- B. Features.
- C. Symbols.
- D. Situations.

49. Up to now, engineers have successfully _____.

- A. developed higher frequency microphones for use on drones
- B. rescued disaster victims by using drones to recognize human cries.
- C. coached artificial intelligence software to distinguish human and natural sounds
- D. completed outdoor experiments using drones to quickly locate disaster victims

50. Which of the following can be the best title for the text?

- A. AI Enables Drones to Give Better Performance
- B. Human-seeking Drones Replace Rescue Crews
- C. Engineers Teach Drones to Hunt Human Screams
- D. Rescuers Use Drones to Locate Disaster Survivors

Everyone looks forward to progress, whether in one's personal life or in the general society. Progress indicates a person's ability to change the way he is living at the moment. Progress must lead a better way of doing things. All these, however, remains true only in so far as people want to accept technology and move forward by finding new and more efficient ways of doing things.

However, at the back of the minds of many people, especially those who miss the "good old days", efficiency comes with a price. When communication becomes efficient, people are able to contact one another no matter where they are and at whatever time they wish to. The click of a button allows people miles apart to talk or to see each other without even leaving their homes. With the communication gadgets, such as mobile phones and ipads, people often do not take the effort to visit one another personally. A personal visit carries with the additional feature of having to be in the person's presence for as long as the visit lasts. We cannot unnecessarily excuse ourselves or turn the other person off.

With efficiency also comes mass production. Such is the nature of factories and the success of industrialization today. Factories have improved efficiency. Unskillful tasks are left to machines and products are better made and produced with greater accuracy than any human hand could ever have done. However, with the improvements in efficiency also comes the loss of the personal touch when making these products. For example, many handcrafts are now produced in a factory. Although this means that supply is better able to increase demand, now that the supply is quick and efficient, the demand might fall because mass production lowers the quality of the handicraft and it is difficult to find unique designs on each item.

Nevertheless, we must not commit the mistake of analyzing progress only from onepoint of view. In fact, progress has allowed tradition to keep up. It is only with progress and the invention of new technology that many old products can be brought back to their old state. New technology is required for old products to stay old.

It is people's attitude towards progress that causes the type of influence that technology has on society. Technology is flexible. There is no fixed way of making use of it. Everything depends on people's attitude. The worst effects of progress will fall on those who are unable to rethink their attitudes and views of society. When we accept progress and adapt it to suit our needs, a new "past" is created.

51. According to Paragraph 1, progress can benefit people when they are willing to _____.

- A. live an advanced life
- B. look for better technical methods
- C. change ways of living at the moment

D. accept technology and advance steadily

52. The author explains “ efficiency comes with a price ” by _____.

A. describing a process

B. using examples

C. following time order

D. making classification

53. Compared with home- made handicrafts, machine made products _____.

A. lack great accuracy

B. lack the personal touch

C. are of high value

D. are quite welcome

54. What can be learned about technology from Paragraph 4?

A. It can destroy new traditions.

B. It can lead to social progress.

C. It can be used to correct mistakes if necessary.

D. It can be used to preserve old products.

55. What can be concluded from the last paragraph?

A. Progress can suit the needs of daily life.

B. People review the past with great regret.

C. Technology should be introduced in a fixed way.

D. People’s attitude decides the use of technology.
