11. 完形填空

Have you ever asked yourself why children go to school? You will probably 1 they go to learn languages, geography, history, science and all the other subjects. That is quite 2, but why do they learn these things?

We send our children to school to 3 them for their future work and life. Nearly everything they study at school has some practical use in their life, but is that the 4 reason they go to school?

There is 5 in education than just learning facts. We go to school above all to learn how to learn, so when we 6 school we can go on learning. If a man really knows how to learn, he will 7 be successful, because whenever he has to do something new he will quickly teach himself how to do it in the best way. The uneducated person, on the other hand, is 8 unable to do it or does it badly, so the 9 of school is not just to teach languages, geography, science, etc, but to teach pupils the 10 to learn.

George Stephenson was born in 1781 in a poor family. He had to start work when he was only eight. When George was fourteen, he became his father's helper. He spent a lot of time learning about engines. And on holidays he often took one to pieces and studied each piece carefully. Soon he became a very good worker though he could not read or write. He began to learn the English letters when he was seventeen years old. Every day after he did twelve hours of hard work, he walked a long way to have lessons from a young school teacher. On his eighteenth birthday, he wrote his own name for the first time in his life. George invented many things in his life. The train was the greatest one among them. Today when we watch or take trains from one place to another, we will think of this great man -- George Stephenson.

It is said that all dreams serve a purpose (目的). While there is no agreement among scientists about why we dream, there are many ideas about the different kinds of dreams we have.

One common kind of dream is the repeating dream, in which the same story is repeated again and again, often for many months or even years. Some believe these are a sign people have a problem in their life and once that problem is gone then the dream will stop. Others think they are a way to help people remember something very important. Another well-known kind of dream is the nightmare. The pictures and stories in such dreams make people very afraid and dreamers usually remember them far more clearly
