Some people think women should be allowed to join the army, the navy and the air force just like men. Do you agree or disagree?

Some individuals believe that the status quo should be changed and ladies should be entitled to join the armed forces (原题改写) . I fundamentally agree with their believe—for three reasons (表明立场) .

History has repeatedly shown that women are fully capable of performing well in the military (分论点一) . Historically, there were a host of valiant women soldiers whose achievements put their male counterparts to shame. One need only look at the classic examples of Joan of Arc and Mulan to see how ladies could excel on the battlefield. In my observation, their determination, courage and dignity, to this day, are still being admired by male soldiers and civilians alike throughout the civilised world (支持句) .

Further, from an enlightened standpoint, female patriots should be granted the equal right to go to the front line when their motherland is involved in a war (分论点二) . Admittedly, gender inequality was a highly controversial issue in the twentieth century. However, now ten years into the new millennium, women can learn and teach, work and supervise, vote and get voted in most countries just like men. In light of this sweeping progress in gender equality, there is really no sense in denying them the right to defend their home country when a war breaks out (支持句) .

lastly, common sense and our experiences as human inform us that would- be servicewomen largely possess the capacity to operate modern weapons(分论点三) . Indeed, present-day weapons are best characterised by extensive automation. Granted, physically women are, on average, not as strong as men; nevertheless, it is an indisputable fact that most of them have the mental ability and psychological well-being to operate the highly-automated arms that essentially do not require big biceps (支持句) .

In sum, keeping military services out of bounds of women in the information age is unwarranted(重申立场) . And I have been convinced that it is in the best interest of a nation if ladies are also granted equal rights in this particular arena (提出建议) .
