清明节高中英语作文 篇 1

Last Qingming Festival, I return home to worship my grandfather. Qingming Festival is a folk festival. In the past, the Qingming Festival was called "Arbor Day". But today, Chinese visit their family graves to tend to any underbrush that has grown. Weeds are pulled, and dirt swept away, and the family will set out offerings of food and spirit money. Unlike the sacrifices at a family's home altar, the offerings at the tomb usually consist of dry, bland food. One theory is that since any number of ghosts roam around a grave area, the less appealing food will be consumed by the ancestors, and not be plundered by strangers.

With the passing of time, this celebration of life became a day to honor past ancestors. Following folk religion, the Chinese believed that the spirits of deceased ancestors looked after the family. Sacrifices of food and spirit money could keep them happy, and the family would prosper through good harvests and more children.

China has a long history of more than 5,000 years, so the variety of culture has been preserved. These meaningful cultures are treated as our national treasure. In order to remember them, the government has named the official holiday.

Tomb-sweeping Day is one of the meaningful festivals. People have days' off every year and the families will get together, sweeping their ancestors' tombs. People believe that they do this can bring good luck, because their ancestors will bless them.

Some people question the meaning of this festival, because they think people are superstitious. As for me, I think this day teaches people to in honor of their ancestors and respect the culture.

It is not something about superstition, but about showing respect to the culture. We need to pass on our culture from generations, or we will lose our national treasure.

Qingming Festival is coming. The school organized us to visit the tomb in Nanshan park.

After arriving at Nanshan Park, we went to the martyrs memorial square, held various activities, and presented our own small white flowers. After the event, we began to have a picnic.

The martyrs have paid their precious lives for our motherland and construction. Their blood has dyed the earth red, the national flag red and the red scarf worn on us. They are so brave, so strong and so great. They gave their lives for the beautiful motherland and their youth for our beautiful life.

Their hearts are shining, their blood is bright red, and their love will never change. Without these martyrs, we would not have our beautiful motherland. Without these martyrs, we would not be happy today.

An idea came into my mind: we should inherit the martyrs'; will, study hard and become the pillars of the construction of the motherland.

Today, April 5, is Tomb Sweeping Day, which is a traditional festival of the motherland.

In the morning, the three of us went to Qinglong mountain to visit the tomb. Once there, the mountains are full of grave sweepers. Some of them have wreaths, some have flower baskets, and a group of primary school students have a small white flower hanging on their chest. I watched them lay flower baskets and wreaths under the monument. The primary school students hung small white flowers on the railing one after another, and there were still three minutes of silence to the martyrs. The monument is engraved with the names of many heroes. At this time, my mother told me: "these uncles sacrificed their lives for the liberation of Zhoushan."

On the way back, I thought that today's tomb sweeping was good for me. Great education has made me understand that our beautiful life is hard won and should be cherished!
