二、阅读理解

On a bright and happy land, there was a little blue train called Thomas. He was small but he had big dreams! One day, all the trains were asked to do the most important task of the year: to carry toys to the top of a huge mountain to kids who lived there.

“It’s not far away, but it is too hard. We won’t do it.” said all the bigger trains. They refused to help. But Thomas thought differently. He wanted to help and believed in himself. Then he said, “I can do it.” The big trains laughed at the little one, but finally Thomas was chosen for the job.

Thomas started to climb the mountain. He kept going, even when it was difficult. He said to himself, “I think I can, I think I can.” He didn’t give up and with great effort, he got to the top of the mountain. Thomas gave all the toys to the children in the mountain village. He was able to do it because he believed in himself!

This year, we celebrate 30 years since China started to build its Beidou Navigation Satellite System (BDS, 北斗卫星导航系统). It took its name from the Big Dipper stars, a group of seven bright stars in the sky.

In 1994, China began building the BDS, so it wouldn't have to use navigation systems from other countries. It's a lot safer this way. In 2020, the BDS was completed. This achievement made China the fourth to have its own navigation system after the US, Russia and the European Union.

The BDS does not just show where you are. It's the first to let you send messages where there is no phone signal (信号). It has also played an important role in disaster prevention and response (防灾减灾). It even helps farmers in China by providing information for planting, which makes farming smarter.

The BDS is more than a system. It shows China's ability in science and technology. Now, over 120 countries and areas are using it. Wherever you are, the BDS is there to help you find your way.

29. Where did the BDS get its name from?

- A. A country. B. A group of stars. C. A planet. D. An invention.

30. When did China begin building the BDS?

- A. In 1994. B. In 2000. C. In 2020. D. In 2024.

31. What is paragraph 3 mainly about?

- A. The advantages of the BDS. B. The ways to make farming smarter.
C. The suggestions on repairing the BDS. D. The methods of preventing disasters.

32. What does the BDS show about China?

- A. Its work in protecting nature. B. Its development in education.
C. Its ability in science and technology. D. Its achievements in making phones.

You may know that bees (蜜蜂) make delicious honey. But do you know that they keep us all alive?

Every year on May 20, it's World Bee Day. It's a day to thank bees for all they do. Without bees, we might not have any food! Three quarters of the world's flowering plants depend on bees and other animals to grow. When bees fly from plant to plant, they carry pollen (花粉). The pollen makes new plants grow.

There are about 20, 000 different kinds of bees all over the world. They work all day for their queen, the biggest bee in the hive (蜂巢). She will lay 800, 000 eggs in her lifetime. However, there are many problems bees are facing. They are losing habitats (栖息地). They also get sick easily from chemicals (化学物质) used by farmers and they die because of higher temperatures with climate change. These are all making the number of bees drop.

People are now turning to technology to help save the bees. One example is a project called RoboRoyale. It produces robot bees to help feed and look after the queen bee. This will get the queen bee to lay more eggs and make more bees.

33. Why do we have World Bee Day?

- A. To help bees fly faster.
- B. To study how bees behave.
- C. To know how queen bee lays eggs.
- D. To thank bees for what they do.

34. How can bees help plants grow?

- A. Making honey.
- B. Carrying pollen.
- C. Driving birds away.
- D. Using special chemicals.

35. What may make the number of bees drop?

- A. Hard work.
- B. Wild animals.
- C. Fewer habitats.
- D. Friendly environment.

36. What does the underlined word “It” in the last paragraph refer to?

- A. A project.
- B. Temperature.
- C. The hive.
- D. Honey.
