That day, I was invited to be a judge of a competition at a college. All of the students had been given a piece of paper with a topic on it.

The first one to speak looked a little uneasy. "My dear friends and judges, " he said loudly, "this is an unfair competition. "

"I have been given the paper, " he continued, "to speak on the topic with just a few minutes' preparation, while those who come after me have more time to prepare their speeches!"

We were shocked at these words but could do nothing for this. He then left the stage and went out of the hall.

Several days later, I met him in parking lot by chance. "Who said life is fair? " asked him, with a smile. He was confused.

Then I pointed to the cars around, "Do you know anything about cars? When new car is introduced into the market, you might hear some nice figures (数字) from the car salesmen. But in fact, your car never works so well as described—because the figures are shown just to say how good a car is. "

"Yes. " he nodded.

"And if you ask the salesmen more about these figures, they will say all the figures are just in ideal road conditions!"

"Yes. " he said again.

"Can you find ideal road conditions in real life? " I asked him, he shook his head. "So that's it. A car will sell well and become the real winner just because it can provide strong power and smooth speed on the worst roads. "

"Don't look for ideal competition conditions. And don't always think about the fairness!" I told him, "Just fight the unfair and come out a real winner!" Then I got into my car.

When I started it and looked back, I noticed he smiled and waved to me. I believed that he knew what he should do in the future.

36. The student thought the competition was unfair perhaps because ____.

- A. he should write the topic first
- B. he was the last one to get the paper
- C. he wasn't good at the topic he picked
- D. he didn't have enough time to prepare as others

37. What can we know about the figures?

- A. People should read them carefully.
- B. They could hardly be realized in real life.
- C. They are always shown on the worst roads.
- D. Only the most expensive car can reach them.

38. The author gave the example of the figures in order to ____.

- A. tell the student that life is not always fair
- B. show the student how to sell more cars

C. teach the student how to choose a good car

D. describe why his car was in good condition

39. What can we infer from the passage?

A. The author was a professional car salesman.

B. The best car provides less power but higher speed.

C. One should try his best to win no matter what condition he is in.

D. The author didn't feel surprised when he heard the student's speech.

40. What do you think of the author?

A. Careful.

B. Strict.

C. Professional.

D. Helpful.

Wang Shuang was just five when she was dropped at her uncle's and left alone. Football, as it often is, became a way out.

At seven, she was noticed by coach Xu Yilong, who found Wang quick in her playing with others. As the only girl in the boys' team. Wang's performances were excellent, and she was called "Iron Girl". And soon, she sensed the sport's power. Football made her relaxed and realize "whatever happens, football never leaves you alone. "

However, life was not always a smooth ride. Some people laughed at her and always tried to push her down and take away her hopes. It influenced her so much that she lost heart. "They were saying I had no talent at all, Gradually, I felt really so, " Wang once wrote. But never did she stop playing. When she was called up to the national team, aged 17, Wang thought, "Me? Are you sure? " When a world- famous club wanted to sign her, she was "excited that an excellent coach thought I was good". It was only then that she felt confident in her abilities. "I felt I received recognition (赏识) . Perhaps I had a bit of talent after all. "

Not any "bit of talent": the girl is praised as China's once- in- a- generation player.

China is a pioneer of women's football in Asia and has won the continental championship (洲际比赛) eight times, including seven straight titles (七连胜) between 1986 and 1999. That was their golden age. Gradually, though, the situation became worse. It is hoped that Wang will encourage the women's football of the country to reach its height in the past.

Coaches usually avoid speaking about players. But when coach Shui was asked about Wang before the match against Vietnam, she couldn't stop mentioning her influence on the team. Wang did not let her team down. Finally she led her team into the last four clash (四分之一决赛).

"Nobody knows how hard it was, " said Wang after the match. "We overcame difficulties. We also showed our strong hearts. I am proud of my team. "

41. In paragraph 2, what can we know about Wang?

- A. She was laughed at by the boys.

- B. good communication
- C. winning recognition
- D. playing in the national team

43. The underlined words "once- in- a- generation player" probably mean ____.

- A. the only player in a team
- B. the player who once got the best training
- C. the most famous player around the world
- D. one of the most talented players in many years

44. According to coach Shui, Wang Shuang ____.

- A. was a good leader of the team
- B. got along with her team members
- C. played an important role in the team
- D. had a good plan for the match against Vietnam

45. What would be the best title for the passage?

- A. Wang Shuang: A Steel Rose

- B. Wang Shuang: A Talented Child
- C. Wang Shuang: A Football Pioneer
- D. Wang Shuang: The Pride of Golden Age
