Emily has a pen friend in England. Her name is Alice. They write to each other twice a month. In her last letter, Alice told Emily how she spent a week in Japan with her family. Here is Emily's reply.

Dear Alice,

Thank you for your last letter. I enjoyed reading it very much. It seemed that you had a more wonderful summer vacation than I did. I hope I can also go to Japan one day.

In this letter I will tell you about my best friend. Her name is Kate.

Kate has long brown hair and blue eyes. We are both 13 years old, but she is a little taller than me. She is always happy and very friendly.

We sit next to each other in class. She is good at math, and I do well in history. We often help each other with our schoolwork. We always go home together and play computer games for an hour. Kate thinks very quickly and she usually wins.

Kate is learning to play the piano. I am learning to play the violin. We practice together every Monday and Wednesday. Now we can both play very well.

Sometimes Kate stays the night at my house, or I stay the night at her house. We always have a good time. Do you ever stay the night at your best friend's house?

Write soon!

Love,
Emily

I joined a chat room called Teen-Age last month. A classmate read about it in a magazine and told me all it. She said it's a really great way to make friends with people in other countries. And she was right!

Everyone in the chat room is a teenager. We share information about home life, music and films. Friends t chat to often ask me about school life in Britain. One friend in Spain sometimes asks me to write the words of English songs for her. My favorite thing is finding out how to prepare food people eat in different countries.

Some of my friends in Teen-Age live on the other side of the world, so when I chat to them at lunchtime, i nearly midnight where they are. My parents like it that I have international friends, but they get annoyed if I'm c

Chatting to people online is different from chatting to people at school. Some people at school aren't very friendly and don't want to talk much, but everyone I've met in Teen-Age is really nice. It's easy to talk about my problems with them and they usually give me good advice.

Many of my school friends have joined several chat rooms, but I won't ever do that. I like the online friends I have now, so I'll keep using Teen-Age. If I have friends in different chat rooms, it'll be too hard to chat to them.

My favorite thing is finding out how to prepare food people eat in different countries.

翻译: 我最喜欢的事情是了解如何准备不同国家的人们吃的食物。
