

浙江省杭州“六县九校”联盟 2022 学年第一学期期中联考高一年级英语学科试题

学校：_____ 姓名：_____ 班级：_____ 考号：_____

一、阅读理解

Covid-19 has brought a great deal of trouble for all of us since March 2020. During this time, mobile phones have been the solution for the boredom and restlessness caused from staying indoors. The most downloaded apps on play store 2020 are;

TikTok

TikTok was the most downloaded app. With over 111.9 million downloads, TikTok has seen a huge growth in 2020, twice more than what it got in 2019. 20% of its total downloads were from India and around 9.3% of the total downloads were in the US.

Zoom

Zoom was the second most installed app in the overall downloads category. With nearly 94.6 million installs, Zoom is the most used app for online meetings and virtual classrooms. 17% of its downloads were in the US and India. Offices and educational institutes were shut down and to continue working and studying from home, people relied heavily on Zoom for video conferencing and calling.

WhatsApp

WhatsApp ranked third in overall downloads with more than 100 million downloads. It is one of the most popular and widely used chat applications; WhatsApp also supports communication between international phone networks.

Facebook

It ranked fourth in the overall downloaded list. Facebook is the world's most popular social networking application. Facebook builds technologies that give people the power to connect with friends and family, find communities and grow businesses.

1. What do we know about TikTok

A. It is an India-based app. B . It has most users in America.
C. It is used for growing business. D . It has doubled its download than in 2019.

2. Which app is the best to turn to for online education

A. TikTok. B. Zoom. C . WhatsApp. D . Facebook.

3. What function does Facebook probably serve

A. Communication. B . Training. C . Teaching. D . Payment

It seems a red squirrel has been causing some trouble for Bill Fischer of Fargo, North Dakota.

The salesman returned from a four-day trip in early September and opened the hood (引擎盖) of his truck, only to find lots of walnuts (核桃) stored inside.

Fischer knew who did that. Since 2013, the red squirrel has been hiding walnuts in his truck every two years when his neighbor's tree produces walnuts. Fischer said last year's walnut collection was the most the squirrel had ever filled in the hood of his truck.

Every walnut season, Fischer had to empty the hood of his truck and gave the walnuts away. "The squirrel will sit in the tree and watch me clean up the nuts almost like, 'That's mine, friend,' as it's watching me clean up his winter storage," Fischer said.

Fischer also said the squirrel overlooked other cars. "There are other cars very close to that tree, and it's always my truck," he said.

"I've even parked purposely out on the street -as far away as I can from the walnut tree-but it still finds my truck and hides them there."

"It's very possible that this funny squirrel considers Bill Fischer's truck to be part of its home," Aliperti said, who led a study that found that ground squirrels' personalities are tied to risk-taking.

Aliperti added that the hood of a truck is a perfect hiding place to a squirrel because it's concealed and dry. Since the squirrel has taken over Fischer's truck again and again, while Bill has thrown the walnuts away year by year, Aliperti laughed and said this one might be very forgetful.

4. What trouble did the squirrel cause for Bill Fischer

A. Storing walnuts in his truck. B . Building a home in his truck.

C. Opening walnuts in his truck. D . Breaking the hood of his truck.

5. How were the walnuts dealt with by Fischer

A. They were returned to the squirrel. B . They were hidden in another place.

C. They were collected for the winter. D . They were cleaned up from the hood.

6. According to Aliperti, why does the squirrel hide walnuts in Bill's truck

A. The truck is red, clean and empty. B . The truck is the closest to the tree.

C. The truck is considered as its home. D . The truck is convenient for transporting walnuts.

7. What does the underlined word “concealed” in the last paragraph mean

A. Open. B . Quiet. C . Large. D . Secret.

There's nothing like having a best friend forever— that person who you can have fun with and talk to. July 30 is the International Day of Friendship. Maybe you can keep an eye out for a new friend to get to know. And while we're talking about friends, don't think humans are the only ones who know a thing or two about friendship. Check out these friendly animals in nature who help each other out.

An elephant and an olive baboon (东非狒狒) can be friends. It sounds strange, but it's true. You can find this pair of friends in the grasslands of Africa. This unusual pair helps each other out like any good friends would. The elephant uses its front teeth to make a waterhole in the sand, and it lets the olive baboon have a drink from this "well" when it gets thirsty. In return, the baboon tells the elephant when danger is near. It climbs up to the treetops and calls out so its friend knows that it's time to move on.

In the sea world, the goby fish and the shrimp (虾虎鱼和虾) are well-known for their friendship. While the shrimp provides a home for the goby fish, the goby fish provides a guidance service for the almost blind shrimp. You see, the goby has great eyesight (视力) and stays close to the shrimp. As the shrimp moves around, the shrimp is feeling the goby with its antenna (须) from time to time to make sure it's still there. If the goby senses danger, she will return to the home and the shrimp will follow.

The langur monkey has a very good friendship with the chital deer (花鹿). While the langur monkey eats in a tree, it drops leaves to the ground. This is good for the deer because sometimes there's not much food. The deer will follow the monkey and eat whatever food is dropped. And in return, when the monkey comes down from the tree, the deer will put its foot down heavily to tell the monkey if it senses danger.

8. How can an elephant help an olive baboon

A. By providing protection. B . By providing a home.

C. By providing water. D . By providing information.

9. What does a shrimp do when moving around in the sea

A. It never swims far from its home. B . It goes home from time to time.

C. It uses its antenna for directions. D . It stays close to the goby fish.

10. What do the olive baboon and the chital deer have in common

A. They warn their friends of danger.

B. They live together with their friends.

C. They have a good sense of smell.

D. They have good eyesight.

11. What would be the best title for the text

A. Best friends forever B . Friendships in the animal world

C. Love me, love my dog D . The International Day of Friendship

When you are lying in bed, every single noise-from the creak(嘎吱

声) of the bed to a whistle in your partner's nose -may keep you awake. You may find it hard to get a good night's sleep. Actually, you may just need more noise. While it may sound strange, it is scientifically proven that certain types of noise can help you sleep well. Specially white, pink and Brown noise can mask(掩饰) these sounds, creating a more harmonious background.

White noise contains sounds of all frequencies(频率) that humans can hear. But it comes across as a high-pitched buzz(声调高的嗡嗡声). That's because of the way your ears hear it. Basically, your brain strengthens sounds in higher-pitched frequencies. So while you are hearing sounds from a variety of frequencies, the highest frequencies tend to drown(淹没) the lower-pitched ones.

The pink noise balanced out the noise so that sounds of all frequencies are heard equally. The higher the frequency, the more its volume is decreased. To your ears, the sound is deeper and softer than white noise. Think of rain falling on the sidewalk or a gentle wind in the trees.

In a study at China's Peking University, researchers found that when people hear either pink noise or no noise during the sleep, 75 % reported more restful sleep with the pink noise. Brain activity monitors proved that people had 23 % more restful brain activity at night with pink noise and 45 % more restful sleep during naps.

Brown noise takes this concept to the next level, further weakening higher frequency noise to produce an even deeper and richer sound.

The color of noise that will help you get more sleep is the one you like the best. While pink and brown noises are deeper and more balanced than white noise, your personal sleep preferences will decide which one gives you the best sleep.

12. According to the passage, we know that the white noise

A. removes low-frequency sounds.

B. protects ears from high-pitched sounds.

C. makes sounds of all frequencies heard equally.

D. contains sounds of all frequencies of people can hear.

13. Why does the author mention the study at China's Peking University

A. To show the need for silence during sleep.

B. To prove pink noise's positive influence on sleep.

C. To stress the importance of restful sleep.

D. To give the reason for more noise for sleep.

14. What's the main idea of this passage

A. Some types of noise may help people sleep better. B . Our brain is always kept active.

C. Many people have difficulty sleeping well. D . Noise has different colors and frequencies.

15. In which section of newspaper may this passage appear

A. Environment. B . Education. C . Science. D . Travel.

二、七选五

Writing tips for travel journals

There are many benefits of keeping a journal when you're traveling.

It helps you remember your visit and learn more culture and customs. Also, it helps you reflect on what you have learned.

____16____ Here are some writing tips for your travel journals.

Write about what you imagine it will be like

Sometimes when you travel, your destination is wildly different than what you expected. Maybe you expected the local food to be bad but it turned out to be delicious. ____17____ . Maybe you thought you would be more comfortable with the language.

Whatever it is, write it down before you arrive. It will be interesting to compare these predictions to your actual experiences.

Write during your trip

____18____ . Therefore, try and write as much as you can while traveling. Your journals don't have to be long, but you should let them highlight what you feel. Before going to bed, try and recall what you did that day, what you thought and how you felt. This will serve as a great way to help you reflect and grow from what you experienced.

____19____

Even though your journal is meant for writing, pictures are still what they represent, or what happened when they were taken will make for an even more comprehensive narrative of your travels.

Write about your trip after you leave

It is necessary to write about your trip before you arrive. ____20____ .

It is important to reflect on your travels to develop new understandings and apply them to future adventures. This is also a great way to learn about yourself. Step back from all the things you did and try to see the big picture. It may surprise you.

A Activities on the list.

B. Add pictures to your journal.

C. Such reflection can be later applied to other parts of your life.

D. Maybe you imagined the town to be smaller than it actually is.

E. Equally importantly, you should also write about it after you leave.

F. It is always easier to remember things when they are fresh in your brain.

G. Keeping a travel journal offers opportunities to fix your feelings on the page.

三、完形填空

I met my art teacher Ms. J in the seventh grade and she changed me.

During the discussion about facial structure and paintings, she _____22_____ the “golden ratio (_____)”, a beauty standard and explained how Da Vinci applied it to his works to ensure they were visually (视觉上) attractive.

I couldn't help but think that if my _____23_____ had been measured against the “golden ratio”, my score would have been low.

I was born with a facial disfigurement (缺陷) and my face looked _____24_____. After several appointments with _____25_____, my face was changed many times with little improvement. I _____26_____ seeing myself in the mirror.

People's strange words and curious expressions kept telling me that I was different. Worse still, my photo appeared in a magazine with big letters “Face similar to works of Picasso” right below. I felt _____27_____ .

I told Ms. J about my _____28_____ and how my face was compared to Picasso's painting.

“Art isn't about what you see but about what you _____29_____.” She comforted me and told me that our _____30_____ appearances were our signatures that we left in the world, which set us _____31_____ and made us beautiful. And then she showed me a picture of an old man with long white hair. “You see, Da Vinci doesn't look too

I was touched by her words, and I wondered why I had never thought this way.

“Being compared to Picasso may seem like a shame, but it’s a(n)
_____33_____. You are unique and you are a masterpiece.”

Today, when I look into the mirror, I will remember the words of my teacher, “Beauty is subjective” and I get to know my appearance is my _____34_____.

It takes me years to _____35_____ that beauty is more than a cold calculation.

21 A. like B. explore C . record D . master

22. A. introduced B . invented C . questioned D . drew

23. A. legs B . head C . feet D . face

24. A. normal B . pale C . frightening D . amusing

25. A. doctors B . artists C . teachers D . actors

26. A. hated B . enjoyed C . kept D . imagined

27. A. nervous B . ashamed C . puzzled D . curious

28. A. choices B . dreams C . sufferings D . goals

29. A. paint B . plan C . hear D . feel

30. A. pretty B . ordinary C . ugly D . unique

31. A. down B . apart C . back D . aside

32. A. impressed B . focused C . went D . loaded

A. job B. victory C. honour D. excuse

34. A. pain B. art C. stress D. chance

35. A. watch B. complain C. realize D. forget

四、用单词的适当形式完成短文

阅读下面短文，在空白处填入 1 个适当的单词或括号内单词的正确形式。

Filled with many sights and ____36____ (attract), China is the best destination in the world. Here are the reasons ____37____ China should be at the top of your visit list. China, with a history of over

5,000 years, ____38____ (be) one of the Four Ancient Civilized Countries. You can enjoy Chinese food, tea culture, Chinese medicine as well as poetry and calligraphy (书法) there. China's ancient treasures are ____39____ (famous) than those in any other country in size and number, from ancient palaces to the Great Wall.

Besides, lovely giant pandas are unique ____40____ China. You can even go to meet wild pandas in their ____41____ (nature) habitats with our panda experts. What's more, with the ____42____ (develop) of Chinese public transportation, it is easier to travel anywhere.

____43____ (take) a smart phone in China, you can take ____44____ high-speed train from Beijing to shanghai at 250-350 km/h, buy a coffee with your e-wallet, and ride a shared bike ____45____ (explore) the city.

46. I have a _____ for a job in that IT company, and I'm waiting for the result. (根据首字母单词拼写)

47. After q_____ smoking, my father felt his health improved greatly. (根据首字母单词拼写)

48. When I heard about the earthquake in Sichuan, I became a _____ about the safety of my brother who was traveling there. (根据首字母单词拼写)

49. It's important to know your own s_____ and weaknesses.

50. C_____ your efforts on learning English, and you will master the language. (根据首字母单词拼写)

51. They are so busy that they have no time to make a _____ for the activity. (根据首字母单词拼写)

52. Mary has decided to go on a d_____ because she hates being laughed at by others for her heavy weight. (根据首字母单词拼写)

53. Lily was e_____ proud that she took the first place in this national marathon event. (根据首字母单词拼写)

54. Here is the perfect s_____ to all your problems. (根据首字母单词拼写)

55. All of us found it a _____ to hear the little boy sing the English song so well. (根据首字母填空)

六、建议信

Tom 最近沉迷于抖音(Tik Tok), 你很

担心他，请你给他写一封邮件。内容包括：

1. 简述其危害：对健康有害，影响学习；
2. 提出建议：严格控制玩手机时间，参加课外活动等；
3. 表达信心。

注意：1.词数 80 词左右；

2. 可适当加入细节，使内容充实，行文连贯。

Dear Tom,

Yours,

Li Hua

七、读后续写

57. 阅读下面短文, 根据所给情节进行续写, 使之构成一个完整的故事, 词数 80 左右.

I am Andrew. My best friend Matthew has stopped talking to me.

We have been best friends since childhood and play together in the school football team.

Last week, we had an important match against another school. The other team was super. I was determined to win, but Matthew was playing badly. He could not keep pace with the game, and as a result of his careless playing, we lost.

Afterwards, I got really angry with him, and I told him I thought he was not tr ying hard enough. He got annoyed, saying it wasn't his fault even if he couldn't play as well as me, and that I shouldn't talk to him in this manner. Then we both started shouting at each other and it turned into a horrible argument.

Since we argued, he ha sn't spoken to me even though we sit next to each other in class. It's really awkward. He is usually cheerful and outgoing, but he has been really quiet and looks sad. The things he said hurt me too, but he has not apologized to me.

One day, we met at the school door.

以上内容仅为本文档的试下载部分，为可阅读页数的一半内容。如要下载或阅读全文，请访问：<https://d.book118.com/898102124114006136>