Often there are more than two adults from different generations of a family.

The family members live together for many reasons. They may help to bring up children, take care of an ill relative. They may also help with saving money. Sometimes children are brought up by their grandparents because their parents have died or can never take care of them. Many grandparents look after the children, particularly when both parents are busy working. This large family is called an extended family. It can be found all over the world. HELPING INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS MAKE FRIENDS

One study in the United States found that thirty-eight percent of foreign students said they had no close American friends.

Elisabeth Gareis teaches in the Department of Communication Studies at Baruch College in New York. She says efforts on how to improve relationships between foreign and American students have yet to be studied in detail. But she says these efforts should begin with the college or university and that these institutions have been working harder.

Ms. Gareis suggests that students should be encouraged to take part in different activities such as taking walks, going on bike rides, field or camping trips and attending parties, sports events or film festivals. She says such activities should be held repeatedly throughout the school year to bring students together. She also suggests that foreign students share housing with American students.

She says if the new students make friends as they begin, they will come to feel part of the life and traditions of the university as they create long lasting friendships throughout their university career.

There's a certain beauty in being a lone wolf. You have more time to do the things you do. But if you want to make more friends and do things together with them, please consider these suggestions on how to meet people and form lasting friendships.

Spend more time around people and talk to them. If you want to make friends, you need to put yourself out in order to meet people. Friends seldom come knocking on your door while you are home playing computer games.

Participate in an online community. You don't necessarily need to have a lot of common interests with people in order to make friends with them. Social networking sites such as Facebook, Twitter and My Space are great way to meet new people and learn more about the people you meet.

Join a sports team. A common misunderstanding about this is that you have to be really good at playing a particular sport in order to make friends with others.
